

Summer 2023

Preparing for Summer 2023

If you are considering taking classes this summer, the information below should help you make decisions on your choice of courses. Following those highlights, you will find the remaining courses we are offering this summer. Remember that regardless of whether you are a sociology or anthropology major, both programs offer complementary courses that can support your major.

Highlighted Courses

SOC 391: Technology and Society (Special Topics): This will be the first time that Dr. Leretta Smith is teaching this course. It's a special topics course that is not offered regularly, so if this topic interests you, consider taking this course over the summer. This class is offered online only.

SOC 412: Sociology of Gender: Dr. Weber will offer this course over the summer, because it will NOT be offered during the upcoming school year. If you have been wanting to take this course, please keep in mind that it won't be offered again until next summer. This is a four-week course that will meet in-person on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Anthropology Summer 2022

ANTH 111: Intro (Radermacher)

- Offered online only.
- Required for SOC & ANTH Major
- Meets GenEd B&D Requirements

Sociology Summer 2022

SOC 110: Intro (Dr. Emanuelson)

- Offered online only.
- Required for SOC & ANTH Major
- Meets GenEd B Requirement

SOC 214: Social Interaction (Dr. Coleman)

- Required for SOC Major

SOC 391: Special Topics: Technology and Society (Dr. Smith)

SOC 407: Deviance (Dr. Thompson)

- Offered only online

SOC 412: Sociology of Gender (Dr. Weber)

- Offered in person

SOC 417: Sociology of Family (Dr. Smith)

- Offered only online